Purpose of the Meeting

The coordinator thanked the participants and outlined two objectives: to introduce Chief Kefas Ropshik (Kefiano), whose stated ambition was to seek the Plateau State governorship in 2027, and to recognize the contribution of women in Jenta Adamu and across Jos North to political participation.

The coordinator acknowledged women's contributions to previous general elections and criticized the incumbent administration for what she characterized as unfulfilled commitments to women. She expressed confidence that the situation could improve under Chief Kefas and urged participants to contribute to the 2027 campaign. She also announced her intention to introduce a distinctive uniform for women in Jos North.

Participants' Contributions

Selbong Nandal of Jenta Makeri said the coordinator's remarks had renewed her willingness to vote. Comfort Bala of Jenta welcomed the direct outreach and the opportunity to discuss women's concerns. Udale Joseph of West of Mind reflected on the previous general election. Yossy Maxwell of Tudun Wada expressed gratitude for the coordinator's appointment, called for trusted party agents at vote collection centres, and appealed for support for women's empowerment.

Key Observations

The discussion centred on women's electoral participation, representation and empowerment. Participants highlighted the need for dependable party agents, sustained engagement with ward women, and practical support for women and young people.

Action Points

The Jenta Adamu ward group presented a list of 25 women. The coordinator encouraged continued engagement in the 2027 election process and proposed a uniform for women in Jos North. A participant called for trusted agents at collection centres and support for women's empowerment.

Conclusion

The stakeholders' meeting gave participants an opportunity to discuss women's political participation and concerns in Jenta Adamu. Their contributions addressed election engagement, representation and empowerment.
